

Wireless Network Information and FAQs

The Attorney Admissions Fund for the Northern District of Georgia funds free access to a wireless internet network for bankruptcy attorneys, trustees and their staffs doing business with the Bankruptcy Court. Wireless access is available on all bankruptcy courtroom floors in all divisions.

Use of computers in the courtroom is permitted only to the extent that it does not interfere with judicial proceedings or the ability of the public to observe the proceedings. A presiding judge may order the discontinuance of the use of such computers at any time.

The Court cannot provide technical support for the wireless network related to hardware, software, or the operating system. Authorized users will be provided with a password for access to the wireless network. In Atlanta and Newnan, the wireless network password will be provided in the attorney lounges. In Rome and Gainesville, the wireless network password will be available at the Clerk's Office Intake Counter.

Frequently Asked Questions about the Court's Wireless Network:

1. How do I connect to the Wireless network at the Bankruptcy Court?

If you are in a courtroom, you may contact the courtroom deputy for the wireless network password. In Atlanta and Newnan, the wireless network password will be provided in the attorney lounges. In Rome and Gainesville, the wireless network password will be available at the Clerk's Office Intake Counter. Upon connecting to "GANB-Atty", you must accept the Wireless Network Terms of Use before you can use the network.

2. If there are too many users, will I be blocked from using the wireless network?

You will not be "blocked" from accessing the network because of too many users on the system. However, when many users are on the network, you may experience slower network performance.

3. Can I download large files?

The bandwidth available for the wireless internet connection is shared with all others on the network. To show consideration for other users, we ask that you not download excessively large files or access streaming audio/video.

4. What do I need to access the Court's wireless network?

You need a Wi-Fi enabled mobile device (e.g., iPad, iPhone, Android, etc.) or a laptop computer with a Wireless Network PC Card (802.11a/b/g). Most new laptops come with an installed wireless card. If you purchase a card for a laptop without a pre-installed card, follow the manufacturer's instructions to install it on your computer.
